

"I was an adjunct professor for 16 years at the University of Maryland Law School, where I taught White Collar Crime, International Criminal Law, Securities Litigation and Enforcement, Broker – Dealer Regulation, and Evidence. I have been a visiting Professor at The University of Dnepropetrovsk in Ukraine (2006), and Catholic University in Lublin, Poland (2008), where I taught International Criminal Law. I also taught an introductory course on the American Criminal Justice System at Tallinn Technological University in Estonia (2012). This year I taught securities law at Sapientia Hungarian University of Transylvania in Cluj-Napoca, Romania.